SEASICKNESS OR WHAT?

A Peculiar Appeal From an Officer of the Navy.

The first instance since the war began of a naval officer who prefers staying ashore to going to sea was presented to Secretary Long yesterday. The young man is a graduate of the Naval Academy and was to be assigned to a ship, but he says he suffers from seasickness to such an extent that life is miserable the entire time he is cruising.

He comes from Maryland, and perhaps is not so anxious to remain on shore as his mother is to have him. She called in person yesterday with one of the Maryland congressmen and appealed to Mr. Long to revoke the orders sending her son to sea. The Secretary called in Capt. Crownsfield, chief of the Navigation Bureau, and directed him to issue additional orders sending the young man to sea at once.

There are many officers of the Navy who, like the Maryland youth, suffer severely from seasickness every time they begin a new cruise, but it is seldom that an officer tries to get out of his orders on that account. Secretary Long does not expect to have such another request made of him while he was last. On the contrary, he is sure that with appeals from every officer now on shore duty to be sent to sea, and the few left are finding a difficult time to secure berths.

BLANCO ENTUSIASM HAVANA.

Bogus Spanish Successes Heralded in the City of "Extra." Key West, Fla., May 6.—Captain General Blanco is in desperate straits. He is already thinking of abandoning Havana and the entire western part of Cuba, apparently realizing that it will soon become untenable.

Theaters and public schools in Havana are closed. Beef has risen from 31 cents to $1 a pound, and other provisions are correspondingly high.

To keep up the spirits of the people Gen. Blanco has military bands playing continually in the parks, and the newspapers issue an extra announcing Spanish success.

SERIOUS COLLEGE PRANKS.

University of Michigan Student Shows a Classmate.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 6.—For two weeks past the freshmen and sophomores of the University of Michigan have been engaged in a good-natured rivalry to see which could cut the most hair off the heads of their rival classmates. Twenty-five victims have already succumbed, but affairs took a serious turn yesterday morning about 2 o'clock, when a student of the freshman law class who was returning home was set upon by a crowd of hair cutters.

Fearing that he was about to be robbed, he drew a revolver and fired, the bullet wounding one of the sophomores in the arm.

Especially as has been made to keep the affair from being made public.

Suing Saloonkeepers.

Parkersburg, W. Va., May 5.—Two damage suits for $5,000 each were instituted in the circuit court yesterday against Edmond Tichnell and John J. McNeerney, saloonists, by Edward Devoil, of Cairo, and Loretta Devoil, his wife. The former claims damages by having his jaw broken in a fight in defendant's saloon recently, and the latter sues under the statute providing for recovery when a husband receives injuries by reason of intoxication, alleging defendant furnished her husband liquor, and while intoxicated he was beaten and injured in such a manner as to prevent him pursuing his labor.

Sued Her Nephew.

Hagerstown, Md., May 6.—Chief Judge A. Hunter Boyd has filed his decision in the case of Mrs. Jane Y. Shaffer against her nephew, John A. Cowden. In 1931 Mrs. Shaffer bought the George Blue 165-acre farm, near Wilson's store, paid $6,806 for it, and had the deed made in the name of her nephew, Mr. Cowden. Six days afterward she took from him a mortgage for $6,806, and eleven days after released the mortgage. In 1937 she filed a bill in the court of equity to have the release set aside, contending that her nephew obtained the release through false representations, and that she did not know what she was doing when she was signing the release. Judge Boyd dismissed Mrs. Shaffer's bill, holding that in signing her name to the release she could not easily misunderstand the character of the instrument, as it was brief and very plainly written, and was the only writing that was on that page. The costs are put upon Mrs. Shaffer, who is now living with her niece at Myranda, Pa.

PESTS OF THE PEACH TREES.

Insects Ravaging the Orchards on the Farms of Maryland.

College Park, Md., May 6.—Prof. W. F. Johnson, State entomologist at the Maryland Agricultural College, says: "The season is now fully opened and has been a remarkable one from the entomological standpoint. The first insect of any considerable economical importance is one which has been very conspicuous for the last eight or ten years in this State, and is known as the black peach aphid, one of the plant lice known to science as aphids.

"In one large nursery in Prince George's county, the insect has destroyed in the neighborhood of a hundred thousand trees and has gained a foothold in a colony of nearly five thousand trees are growing. We are now waging a warfare against it at this place and hope to have the greater portion of the remaining trees by the prompt application of the remedies we have for its suppression. Another outbreak has occurred on the Eastern Shore, where the insect has made its appearance in the heart of a block of young peach trees containing nearly fourteen hundred thousand. It has also appeared in the young orchards of the mountain belt of Western Maryland, and many of the large growers have lost hundreds of thousands of trees already. I am now doing everything in my power with the apparatus and assistance at my command to help the fruit growers and nurserymen of the State out of this emergency.

"I have now in press a bulletin, which will be issued within the next two or three days, giving information regarding this insect. This bulletin also embraces an article on the cut worm, which is so very injurious to young tobacco and other plants, giving the remedy for its control, and also gives an exact copy of the law creating the State horticultural department passed by the last general assembly."

Verdict Set Aside.

Luxury, Va., May 6.—The verdict for $1,000 damages against the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company in the Pittman case has been set aside by Judge Harrison, upon the same grounds he set aside the first verdict of $2,500—namely, the finding of the jury was against the law and the evidence.

The suit of A. H. Marpole vs. Norfolk and Western Railroad Company for $10,000 damages for injuries sustained by him as brakeman, is being tried.

Martial Law in Madrid.

In Madrid martial law rules the press, all meetings and street demonstrations, and anyone circulating news about war is sent to the military prisons. Throughout all public buildings and courts the police and soldiers are stationed ready to suppress any uprising or disorder that may occur. To Americans this is a strange spectacle to be presented by the capital of a nation in these days, but it is a delightful spectacle to have a law-abiding people enjoying a glass of Heurich's beer during most trying moments.

Pleasures that come unlooked for are three welcome with a cold glass of Maerzen, Senate, Extra Pale Lager Beer or a glass of Heurich's Sparkling Beer.

Mr. Hart, who has lost thirty-seven pounds since she began the fight for her husband's liberty, said yesterday that Capt. Hart was so broken in health that only his liberty could save his life. She hopes, however, before the setting of another sun to carry the pardon into the prison.

"I will soon succeed," she said, as she left her face wreathed in smiles. "When the papers reach the President he cannot refuse to sign them. Why should Mr. Hart be kept in jail because of something done to the Spaniards with whom we are at war? I was never happier in my life, because I feel sure my husband will be restored to his home an honorable man, and then when he is recovered I will bid him go and serve his country and help the poor Cubans in their dreadful struggle for liberty and life."

The international side of the question seems to be the only reason why Capt. Hart is yet in prison. A consultation was held last night by the President and Attorney General Griggs and by the morning's dawn the pardon will beyond doubt be speeding to the Eastern Penitentiary in Philadelphia, and Capt. Hart will be restored to his pretty home on Fairmount Avenue.
